NEW YORK, N. Y. — of the YWCA's Latin American-U.S.A. Exchange, the first such exchange to be sponsored by a voluntary organization in the United States.

An estimated 3,000 persons, members of the Young Women's Christian Association of the U.S.A. and special visitors, will convene May 8-13 in Denver for the 22nd national convention of the organization.

Major focus of the parley will be the role and responsibility of the YWCA in the Sixties.

Heading the list of principal speakers are Dr. Allan Nevins, noted historian who is DeWitt Clinton Professor Emeritus of American History at Columbia university and who is currently associated with the Henry E. Huntington Library, San Marino, Calif., and Dr. Charles H. Wesley, president of Central State college at Wilberforce, Ohio.

Both speakers will appear early in the convention, helping delegates to face the urgent social and economic, domestic and world challenges of the decade, according to Miss Lilace Reid Barnes, Lake Forest, Illinois, National YWCA president.

Miss Elizabeth Palmer, general secretary of the World YWCA, will come from Geneva, Switzerland, headquarters for the World Association, to lead daily meditations through which members of the United States can share concerns with members in the 69 other countries where the YWCA is at work.

The triennial meetings of the membership bring together not only official delegates from YWCAs throughout the United States, but a number of world leaders.

This year special participants will be the 23 members
